Good Farming in Denmark

Denmark, with a population of less than 5,000,000, has seventy "primary high" schools teaching scientific farming, dairying, cattle breeding, etc., and many special schools for similar purposes. She can export $110,000,000 worth of meat, poultry and dairy products every year, while countries of haphazard farming methods complain of the high cost of living.

DUTY

Your best is never too much to do
And your best is never too much to give
In the service of those who look to you
For the joy they have and their fight to live.

To cheerfully do the best you may
Is never too much for the wage you get,
And whoever does less, whatever his pay,
At the end of the day is deep in debt.

The best you may do is never too great
For the chance you have and joys you claim,
And they that do less keep selecting Fate
To be vainly cursed and to bear the blame.

Ilisley Happenings

Yesterday was a sizzler.

Tom Terry was meandering down Main street here yesterday.

Rufe Majors is now the unconquered champion of this part of the moral vineyard, he having won the decision in the Pleasant Majors contest, which was staged in front of the Company Store a few days since.

Lacy Ramsey paid in a load of vegetables on Jeffs bond last week, and Arthur Melton and Bob Lee are expected to come across with some cabbage for their part next week. Lan Harrison we hear declines signing the bond.

Chas. Martin the expert electrician has been doing some repair work on D. O. Woodruff's automobile. Tom Harland, who assisted him in the work says that after the car had been repaired Charlie concluded to give an exhibition in joy riding and after landing at the bottom of Brummer's hill and counting up "Fatalities" it was found that all the bark had been peeled from the giant oak that marks the corner to Woodruff and the carbon-dele land.

Tom Ashmore has moved his hogs to a tree back of R. J. Salmon's stables.

U. L. Ledbetter is up after a spell of dysentery, and he looks slightly disfigured but is still in the ring. Uncle Fudd Haskins and son "Little Fudd" gave an entertainment at the schoolhouse last night consisting of moving pictures etc. Guy Majors played the part of Boscoe the snake eater, and consumed several lizards and scorpions on the side. Guy was assisted by Bud Pool the nail eater.

OPEN LETTER

From State Superintendent of Schools, Frankfort, Ky.

TO TEACHERS and TRUSTEES—
The proper medium for the settlement of controversies arising between teachers and trustees is the County superintendent of schools. Many teachers, trustees and citizens have a custom of writing the State Superintendent of Public Instruction about every little detail of school management. I have no objection to answering these inquiries and it is always a pleasure to render assistance to any school officials or citizen interested in the welfare of the school. These requests often state only one side of the question and it is impossible to give a fair decision until we have heard both sides. In view of these facts, I think it wise and just for all trustees, teachers and citizens to submit these questions first to the County superintendent. When an opinion is needed, the county superintendent is the proper person to ask for an opinion from the state office. When this is done, he can give both sides of the question and the state office can render an intelligent opinion. Strictly speaking, I have no authority to give an opinion, except upon an appeal from the decision of the county superintendent or upon his request. I desire to make this appeal to all teachers and trustees, to submit your questions first to the county superintendent, who is the proper person to decide all questions of difference and doubt regarding the schools of his county.

Yours very truly,
BARNESDALE HAMLETT
Superintendent

BREVITY

Pat Henry reaped undying fame By getting both feet in the game, And muttering a sentence--only one, but to the point. He said his say in just one breath: He asked for liberty or death, Nor spent an hour preaching till his tongue was out of joint. Now Pocahontas pulled a stunt-- She got a hit on just a bunt-- She said no word but grabbed some fame by merely making signs. Joo, Smith, who figured in the deal, Grew famous too, nör missed a meal, Nor said a word of consequence-- he'd never learned his lines.

When Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg He gurgled not a gushing gurg: He merely made his speech and quickly ambled down. He didn't yell, gesticulate, He said his lines and pulled his freight, And for those brief remarks of his he gathered much renown.

These lines are meant to point the way To trails that lead from yesterday; They're here to show that active tongues are sometimes made to hold That spilling wordlets here and there And pumping out great waves of air Is mostly taken at its worth. Forgotten ere it's cold.

LORIMER IS UNSEATED

From the United States Senate by Vote of 55 to 28

Washington, D. C., July 13.—On the ground that corrupt practices were used in his election, the U. S. senate today voted to unseat Wm. Lorimer, of Illinois. The vote was 55 to 28.

March 1, 1911, the senate permitted Lorimer to keep his seat by a vote of 46 to 40. On July 6, the second trial started.

As soon as the vote was announced today, Lorimer left the chamber without saying a word.

Lorimer was elected Senator on May 26, 1909, following a long deadlock in the Illinois legislature. A coalition of Republican and Democratic forces accomplished his election. A year later several members of that legislature signed confession alleging that they had been paid for their votes. Later charges revealed a "slush fund" to "put Lorimer over" to which big corporations were invited to contribute. In all the various investigations to date Lorimer has vigorously denied any corrupt practices in the senatorial deadlock.

Diminishing Railway Returns

Confidence in the ability of a railway company properly to continue its operations and adequately to maintain and extend its facilities depends in greatest measure upon its net operating revenue. This is what is left of the receipts from traffic constituting the total operating revenue, after the operating expenses have been met. As the mileage of the railways tends to increase year by year, an accurate measure is obtained of the operating revenues, operating expenses, and net operating revenue by ascertaining what they have amounted to for each mile. It may be, for example, as was the case in March, that while in the aggregate net operating revenue has increased, it has decreased when measured per mile of line.

Monthly summaries of the steam railways of the United States have been compiled by the Bureau of Railway Economics from the reports filed month by month the railways with the Interstate Commerce Commission, for the twenty-two months from July, 1910 to April, 1912, the latest month for which returns are available. Net operating revenue per mile of line for the railways as a whole in comparison with the corresponding months of the previous year decreased in eighteen of these months, and increased in but four. The decrease per mile of line per month was as great in amount as $58, and as great in ratio as 15 per cent. The greatest increase for any one of the four months showing increases was $31, or 14.1 per cent. This was in February, 1912, and was exceptional as this month contained one more day than February, 1911. The highest average net operating revenue per mile of line for any one month of this period was $409, the lowest $203.

Seven of the ten months from July, 1911 to April, 1912, show decreases in net operating revenue per mile of line as compared with the corresponding months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910. It is therefore evident that the trend of railway net revenue has been downward for the past two years.

The summary, for April, 1912, shows that net operating revenue was less than for April, 1911, by $6,026,440, equivalent per mile of line to $33, or 11.4 per cent. This net operating revenue, which in the aggregate amounted to $56,362,945, averaged $8.57 for each mile of line for each day in April, less by $1.11 than for each day of April of last year. This is the gross income per mile of line per day before anything has been taken out for taxes, rentals interest on bonds, appropriations for betterments or dividends. Taxes for April amounted to $44 per mile of line an, increase of 9.4 per cent.
